Notes/LTAC Discussion

Robust discussion regarding this event and the one-day-late application. LTAC expressed strong support for the thousands of guaranteed stays. The LTAC voted and approved this application for funding consideration with a 4–2 vote. The LTAC recommended 50% reduction from previous funding levels due to the late submission.

Programming is often times new and unique.

LTAC discussion: Several members noted that the City's current level of contribution to City events and Cultural Arts programming is high. They requested that the City continue exploring alternative funding sources outside of the lodging tax fund to better align event support with funding levels for similar programming.

External event producer and budget separate from City Parks and Recreation Events Team.

Goal: Bringing back the bicycle race to Redmond Derby Days, while making the race part of a larger regional event to attract even more racers and spectators.

Large cultural arts element of Redmond Lights. Plan to expand the current footprint into Esterra Park in a different part of the city.

LTAC discussion: Several members noted that the City's current level of contribution to City events and Cultural Arts programming is high. They requested that the City continue exploring alternative funding sources outside of the lodging tax fund to better align event support with funding levels for similar programming.

LTAC discussion: The LTAC increased this amount by $2,000 from the staff recommendation. They discussed the rising costs of City of Redmond Park permits/fees and chose to give slightly more with excess funding available.

The concept includes different pet-friendly activations at each participating Redmond Hotel/location.

The Intercultural Festival & World Market will be a large-scale community event featuring cultural performances, multi-ethnic foods, arts, and small businesses all representing the rich diversity of Redmond. The event will take part during the National Welcoming Week.

LTAC discussion: The LTAC increased this amount by $1,000 from the staff recommendation. They discussed the rising costs of City of Redmond Park permits/fees and chose to give slightly more with excess funding available.

Event would include a variety of programming related to World Cup visitation. The event producer is already discussing programming with hotels. The event producer had a watch party trial in June 2025 for the Club World Cup. More details will be worked out for once the World Cup schedule is released.

Staff will also advise them to apply for city and regional World Cup grants if qualified.

This application is for "an immersive, web-based and mobilefriendly virtual tour platform showcasing Redmond's BIPOC-owned businesses, restaurants, and attractions alongside city-owned parks and trails—driving new customers through immersive virtual previews and tourism marketing."

LTAC and staff discussion: The project lacks clearly defined details and measurable tourism impacts, particularly regarding overnight stays. Staff will work with the event producer to clarify the project scope and explore whether alternative funding sources may be more appropriate.

Will focus initially on supporting visitors during the world cup. "This event goal is to attract everyone by providing economic opportunities, resources, education, collaboration and promotion for all cultures to share their experience. The day of the event we plan to be 6 to 8 hours on June 13th and the activities are for everyone to enjoy and share the excitement of the World cup as well as get souvenirs and create experiences among all cultures, ranging from learning, participating in workshops and understanding of the games played." Will advise them to apply for city and regional World Cup grants if qualified.
