

Currently, the senior community has been very involved in discussions and the final recommendation for Council consideration, but due to the pandemic and the King County Public Health recommendations for those age 60 and over, postponing this discussion and decision will allow the seniors to be fully engaged in this process at a later date.

In addition, because of the pandemic, the City does not have full knowledge or forecast of what the economic impact will be to the community. In order for the City Council to make an informed decision, this impact will need to be analyzed prior to committing funds to this large of a project. This time will also allow us to develop other options to consider if the economic impact limits the City's ability to fund the current recommendation.

It is anticipated that if we delay this discussion and decision for 2-3 months, we still may be able to deliver the construction of a new building within 3 years. We may be able to expedite the permitting and/or design development process to accomplish the original goal.

VII. TIME CONSTRAINTS

The community has requested that this community asset is replaced as soon as possible in order to restore community gathering and experiences. This recommendation is to delay this decision for 2-3 months, understanding both the economic impacts and assuring participation of the senior community.

The City Council has requested a timeline and decision points to help guide this process. Here are the key decision points that will be requested from the City Council:

March 24th, 2020: Consent, Resolution for the GCCM process.

April 7, 2020: Public Hearing, approval of GCCM application process.

May - June, 2020: Decision on Redmond Senior Center Building and possible financial options.

July- August, 2020: Award of bid for designer, contractor and project manager for GCCM process to begin design and construction of Redmond Senior Center.
